HEADLINE: Carole Deschambault is presented the 2006 President Award Recipient

BODY:

The Association for Insurance Compliance Professionals (AICP) is pleased to announce the 2006 President Award recipient, Carole Deschambault.

The President's Award is given to those members who, in the view of the AICP's President, have made significant contributions to the Association in pursuit of its goals relative to the Mission & Vision Statement. This year's award was presented to Carole Deschambault by President Edward Lybrook, MAG Mutual Insurance Company. Since becoming a member Carole has made great impact on the organization.

She is tireless, not detail too small, no task too big. Everything she has done has been a success. Carole is a past president, national secretary – twice, vice chair of conference, program chair and exhibitor chair. However, her role as the Chair of Annual Conference – twice – including this year, has really allowed her shine and with her every success the AICP and its members have reaped the benefits.

Not only has Carole done all of the above for the AICP but she has also served on the Government and Industry Relations Committee, Finance committee, et al. President Lybrook doesn't believe there is "an aspect of this organization in which her impact has not been directly felt."

It is with great honor that the AICP congratulates Carole Deschambault with the 2006 President Award.

The Association of Insurance Compliance Professionals, with over 1,400 current members, serves the insurance compliance community by promoting relationships, exchanging information, and providing learning opportunities within a dynamic regulatory environment. Members include personnel from property, casualty, life and health insurers, regulatory agencies, consultants and other specialty operations. The AICP is dedicated to promoting regulatory competence and awareness for the improvement of regulatory compliance within the insurance industry.
